DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election without traverse of Invention I in the reply filed on 7/28/04 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

3. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Moriya et al.
'514. Moriya discloses carbon nanotube or CNT-FETs wherein plural CNTs are aligned from the source to drain regions. The S/D regions read on the claimed alignment regions and the additional schematically depicted interconnects read on the conducting contacts that are in communication with the end portions of the CNTs.

- a. Regarding claim 2, as the S/D or alignment spacing is slightly smaller than the CNT length, the spacing reads on "a distance about equal" to the CNT length.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 14 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Moriya et al. '514 as applied to the claims above.

- a. Regardless of whether Moriya expressly discloses that plural such CNT-FETs may be employed on a common substrate, and thereby anticipate claim 14, one of ordinary skill in the art would have understood the disclosure of CNT-channel FETs to implicitly teach that plural devices could be formed on a common substrate.
- b. Alternatively, even if Moriya must be interpreted so narrowly as not disclosing the possibility of plural CNT-FETs with sufficient particularity so as to anticipate claim 14, it nonetheless would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have provided plural CNT-FETs on the common substrate for the purpose of forming and integrating larger interconnected circuits, such as inverters for example.
